1. How do you currently clean the dirt off your shoes before entering your home?

Ans: I usually wipe my shoes on a doormat or scrape them on the edge of a step before entering. If they're really dirty, I'll tap them together or rinse them off outside.

2. What challenges do you face with traditional doormats or other dirt-removal methods?

Ans: Traditional doormats often fail to fully clean soles, get dirty quickly, and become ineffective in muddy or rainy conditions, allowing dirt to be tracked indoors.

3. How often do you need to clean or replace your doormat?

Ans: As a middle-class person, I clean my doormat every 1–2 weeks—more often during monsoons or dusty weather—and replace it every 1–2 years when it wears out or loses effectiveness.

4. Do you feel that dirt from footwear affects indoor cleanliness and hygiene?

Ans: Dirt from footwear brings dust, germs, and allergens indoors, making floors dirty, increasing cleaning needs, and potentially causing stains, odors, and health issues for kids and pets.

5. How frequently do you expect to use such a product?

Ans: I would expect to use a dirt-removal product daily, every time I enter the house. It would be especially useful during rainy or dusty seasons when shoes get dirtier more often.

6. Would you be interested in a hands-free and automatic dirt removal system as an alternative to doormats?

Ans: A hands-free, automatic dirt removal system offers a cleaner, more convenient alternative to doormats, but it must be durable, low-maintenance, and affordable for middle-class households.

7. Would you want the product to be portable or fixed at the entrance?

Ans: Fixed
